Nu Horizons and Finisar Sign North American Distribution Agreement

MELVILLE, N.Y. & SUNNYVALE, Calif., Sep 11, 2007 (BUSINESS WIRE) --

Nu Horizons Electronics Corp. (NASDAQ:NUHC), a leading global distributor of advanced technology semiconductor, display, illumination, power and system solutions; and Finisar Corporation (NASDAQ:FNSR), a technology leader in fiber optic solutions for high-speed data networks, today announced an agreement by which Nu Horizons becomes an authorized distributor of Finisar's high-speed data communications products for the United States, Canada and Mexico.

A technology leader for fiber optic subsystems and network performance test systems, Finisar products enable high-speed communications for networking and storage applications over Ethernet Local Area Networks (LANs), Fibre Channel Storage Area Networks (SANs), and Metropolitan Area Networks (MANs).

"Finisar's high-speed fiber optic subsystems are engineered to deliver value-added functionality and intelligence," states Rita Megling, senior vice president of marketing for Nu Horizons. "They are the optical module manufacturer of choice for all major networking equipment vendors worldwide, and their broad product selection and innovative technology will assist our OEM customers in efficiently designing and testing their storage networking systems."

"Finisar is pleased to partner with a global distributor known for having world-class logistics, a focused line card and strong demand creation capabilities," said Todd Swanson, vice president of sales and marketing for Finisar Corporation. "Nu Horizons' technical approach to sales and extensive engineering resources will help us reach and support new customers throughout North America."
