Dear Finisar Team,

I am writing to personally reach out to you to express how excited we are to reach an agreement to combine with Finisar. This combination would unite two industry leaders with complementary capabilities and compatible cultures. We believe this is a great opportunity for our companies – including the talented team members from each organization – and we look forward to welcoming you to II-VI and embarking on this next chapter together.

II-VI has tremendous regard for the history of Finisar and respect for its people, technology, global footprint and strategy. We are aware of your leading contributions and sustainable progress you have made in creating and delivering integrated break-through optics and electronics technology that underpin world-class products that are transforming data communications and optical communications. The industry has profited from Finisar's innovations and everything I have learned in recent weeks has confirmed my regard for Finisar's founders and its talented global team and my belief that, together, our companies will be even better positioned to capitalize on the opportunities ahead as we witness the market's convergence of communications, computing and consumer electronics.

As one company, we will leverage our combined technology and intellectual property spanning engineered materials, compound semiconductors and photonics, to provide customers with one of the most diverse portfolios in the industry. We believe that we will be even more effective in emerging markets such as 5G, 3D sensing, cloud computing, electric and autonomous vehicles, and advanced microelectronics manufacturing based on materials processing with lasers. Combining our companies also means we will be able to provide expanded growth opportunities for employees as we create a larger, more diverse organization that is better able to serve customers around the world.

We look forward to working with the Finisar leadership team to complete the transaction over the coming months. I will be joining Finisar's town hall in Sunnyvale on Monday, November 12. I am delighted to have the opportunity to meet many of you face to face and speak to those of you joining by webcast.

I hope you share in our enthusiasm about the future.

Sincerely,

/s/ Chuck Mattera
